

N. Usenko

Rural vital space as condition of daily occurrence of working young people:
tendencies of 1990-2000th

In the article on the basis of the archived statistical materials, analytical works of predecessors the changes of vital space are considered in the daily occurrence of rural working young people during 1990-2000th. Scientific literature that includes the problems of rural young people only examines the problems of her everyday life and also, changes in values, to consciousness of young people and others like that. Importance of the outlined problem is predetermined, foremost by a necessity to have a clear idea about to socio-economic reality of the Ukrainian village, during 1990-2000th. It is found out, that rural young people continued to be in conservative and inert rural vital space. It had fades of estimation of sense of life. The factor of the following and perspective was taken into account in development of everyday life of rural working young people. Considerable attention is spared to finding out of pre-conditions of substantial changes in reference-points and evaluation judgements young villages.

First in historiography on the basis of specific methodological tool accordance of vital terms is analysed on a village - to the strategic aims - socio-economic revival of the Ukrainian village. The special attention is spared to finding out of circumstances of influence of rural vital space on everyday life of young people. A considerable place in the article was found by plots sanctified to the show of changes in the hierarchies of vital values, and influence on it of intercommunications between generations and corresponding public factors. In professional self-determination of young people, political tastes changes took place during the investigated years.